Macmillan Motion Voted Down

Shocked Council Urged To Fire City Manager

'Engineer Already Doing the Work'

By R. O. MARRION

Ald. Robert Macmillan pinned his immediate political future yesterday to a plea for civic economy and efficiency and a proposal that the city engineer take over the duties of the city manager.

Claiming that "this city is unnecessarily burdened with duplication at top level," he moved that City Manager C. C. Wyatt be given six months' notice and that City Engineer J. C. Garnett assume his duties, the engineer's pay to be increased $200 a month.

The rest of council, "thunderstruck" and "quite surprised" and "shocked," voted against the proposal, except Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, who abstained.

Ald. Macmillan, announcing that he would seek re-election for one year only, acknowledged that "this submission could quite possibly spell finis to my association with this council."

However, he added, "If by some peculiar quirk of fate the public should see fit to endorse my personal viewpoint, then I would say it would be wise on your part to re-orient your own thinking in order that implementation of the policies outlined might be expedited."

Ald. Macmillan said that in the past year council had been particularly adept at spending, "but what of legislation to provide the stabilizer, namely income?"

ALD. MacMILLAN
. . . pins future on move

C. C. WYATT
. . . his job to engineer?

Wisp of Hope

It was true, he said, that nearly $340,000 worth of city land had been sold this year, but remaining properties listed for sale probably would bring less than their aggregate list price of $339,000.

"Action taken now before the few remaining dregs of the account are spirited away, to provide for the re-investment of these funds, could conceivably result in an annual predetermined income as opposed to a floating wisp of hope."

He suggested that something should be done to reduce taxation—"Can we allow the spectre of property reversion to stalk the land while we as politicians twitter over which pie-in-the-sky scheme will have the greatest voter appeal?"

Ald. Macmillan said the city should be prepared to pay for efficiency. He said a survey in a nearby community of similar size had shown that "in 25 out of 26 positions dealt with we find that we are underpaying at a staggering rate, our engineer, comptroller, municipal clerk, building inspector, and all of their deputies are receiving $100 per month less than they should, providing they do a competent job."

Duplication

the city, he said, was unnecessarily burdened with duplication at the top level.

A survey of reports from the city manager's office over the past year had shown that of about 80 items dealt with, 75 needed approval from the engineering level or the police chief, the rest being admissions to Mountain View Home. major degree, namely the city engineer."

The merger, he said, would provide an initial $18,000 annually "which could be used to some degree to alleviate our present problems with regard to remuneration."

(The city manager receives $12,000 a year. Ald. MacMillan presumably included other expenses of his office.)

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow led the parade of aldermen speaking against Ald. Macmillan's motion. He sincerely believed, he said, that Mr. Wyatt was a city manager second to none in Canada and the United States.

Thunderstruck

Ald. J. Donald Smith said the motion would "break the spirit of the resolution put before the people" when Victoria adopted the city-manager system. Ald. M. H. Mooney, "quite thunderstruck," said he would not support the motion "in one small particle of a way." The city staff was doing a good job, and the city engineer was contented with his salary, he said.

Ald. Austin Curtis said many instances could be produced of considerable financial savings made on the city manager's advice. Just this year, wiht a plan to redistribute health costs, the city manager had saved the city more than his salary.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, to whom the proposal came as "a real shock," said the engineer and the city manager were in two entirely different categories, trained in two entirely different fields. He agreed that the engineer was underpaid, but "I couldn't even think of supporting this resolution."

Acting Mayor W. F. Pinfold said he was sure Mr. Wyatt had earned his salary several times over during his terms as city manager, and that he thought htere was better teamwork in city hall than ever before in history, "and I think it's due to the efforts and ability of Mr. Wyatt."

Shepilov Warns UN

'War May Start Again If Forces Stay in Egypt'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (UP) — Russia warned the United Nations yesterday that there is "no guarantee that the war may not break out again" as long as British, French and Israeli troops remain in Egypt.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov issued the warning in a policy speech to the General Assembly.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had announced officially an hour previously that Britain, France and Israel had begun the withdrawal of their forces and had announced readiness to complete the operation once the UN emergency force is ready to take over.

Shepilov said the Hungarian revolt was a plot supported from outside to "turn Hungary into a helpless satellite of the imperialist powers.

"Thus, the victory of the counter-revolutionary putsch in Hungary would have meant the formation of a most dangerous hotbed of war in Europe."

Shepilov renewed various "peace" and "disarmament" proposals made recently by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. Among these were:

Russia proposed a one-third reduction during 1957 in its own forces and those of the United States, Britain and France stationed in Germany. At the same tigne, there should be "a considerable reduction" in the armed strength of the U.S., Britain and France in the North Atlantic countries and of Russia in the Warsaw pact countries.

"We tell the leaders of the western powers: As soon as you withdraw your troops from Western Germany, as soon as you liquidate your military, air and naval bases on foreign territory, we shall also withdraw our troops from the countries where they are stationed under the Warsaw treaty.

Atom Edge Spells Victory for West

OTTAWA (BUP)—North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces are not in a position to stop a Russian attack with conventional weapons alone, says Gen. Alfred Gruenther, former NATO commander. But, he added, the West, with its atomic capability, could beat the enemy.

He also said that "there has been a strain in the alliance" because of the Franco-British action in the Middle East.

"Whatever the strain is it's up to us to correct it," he said, "because there is no better system (of defence) than the alliance system.

"But it is still a fact that our forces are not strong enough."

Gen. Gruenther said, however, that with Germany's NATO contribution, which is being assembled, "we will be able to defend all of Europe."

Plucky Girl

Clerk Grabs Robber

A courageous stocking saleswoman nabbed a man yesterday as he attempted to flee the Hudson's Bay Co. store after scooping up $270.

Mrs. Olive Crawford, 3851 Quadra, was counting the day's money taken in by the hosiery department at closing time, 5.30 p.m.

She turned away for a second and a man she'd seen hanging around "grabbed a handful of it," a store official said. But she had turned back in time to see him and she rushed over and grabbed his arm.

Mrs. Crawford got the money back while another employee phoned for the store detective, Harry Mills. Mr. Mills, who was close by, came to find the man "very confused by this time and trying to find a way out of the store."

Police said they arrested Ernest Dunstan, 80 San Jose.

Great Lakes Lashed

Vicious Gales Batter East With Snow, Cold

By The Canadian Press

A sneak punch from winter left residents of Ontario, Quebec and some northern sections of the United States reeling Thursady, surveying a trail of toppled power lines, trees and television antennae.

A sudden, vicious gale swept out of the west Wednesday, swirled over central Canada and the U.S. and blew on over Quebec. Winds of up to 95 miles an hour were registered in Ontario at its height.

A wave of falling temperatures and snow followed the storm.

The winds sent ships scurrying for cover on the Great Lakes. A crippled freighter, the J. P. Wells of Detroit, battled 30-foot waves and 50-mile-an-hours in one of the worst squalls ever encountered on Lake Superior.

HALIFAX (CP) — A southerly gale whipped up a furious sea along the Atlantic coast Thursday. A disabled sealing ship was driven toward a rocky shore in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Heavy, wet snow up to 21 inches deep disrupted highway traffic in western New York Thursday and the weather bureau predicted the same treatment for the Adirondacks in the next 24 hours.

Seattle Strike 'Definitely On'

SEATTLE (AP) — An 11th hour attempt to forestall a city bus strike ended in failure early today and President Walter Nord of the Streetcarmen's Union said: "The strike definitely is on."

Nobody Hurt

One-Punch Elvis In Fight Again

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Police broke up a fight between Elvis Presley and a 19-year-old youth in a plush downtown bar early Thursday. Nobody was hurt.

Officers jailed the 19-year-old Lewis Ballint of Toledo, but they did not detain Presley, rock 'n' roll idol of the teenagers.

"This guy walks up to me," said Presley, "and says 'you — — —,' my wife carries a picture of you in her wallet, but doesn't carry one of me. Let's step outside."

The entertainer said Ballint lunged at him and the fight started.

As the officers arrested Ballint, six teen-aged girls, who had been watching from the lobby doorway, rushed in and volunteered their names as witnesses.

Increases Unfair, Victorians Say

Some Comments Unprintable

Government Called Robbers, Gyps on Liquor

By PETER BRUTON

The Social Credit government came in for a barrage of criticism last night from angry residents of Greater Victoria who protested the increase in price on Canadian rye whisky and gin.

A telephone poll of residents chosen at random by The Daily Colonist showed that not one of 20 people who gave their comments were in favor of the 40 to 95 cents a bottle increases.

Closest anyone came to agreeing with the government's action was a declared teetotaller who said he didn't care what was done about liquor.

Some of the comments were frankly unprintable.

One resident went so far as to predict it would mean the downfall of the Social Credit regime in B.C.

Here are the comments:

Gordon B. Paterson, 3565 Beach—"It's just a type of highway robbery which is legalized. This government outfit should realize it is getting enough in taxes as it is."

Don Reeve, 1312 Gladstone—"I think this increase is pretty grim. There should be some investigation to see why the increase is so much. If it's a fair raise we'll have to pay for it but I don't think it is."

John T. Bull, 3326 Shelbourne—"I don't care if they double the price. I'm a staunch teetotaller and don't care if they take it all and stick it down the river."

Robert Ferguson, 1741 Amphion—"I don't think it's necessary with the profit they are making as it is. It just doesn't seem right."

Mrs. J. Sampson, 507 Simcoe—"There's no need for the increase. When you stop and think how much the government can buy it for by the case it's outlandish. I figure they make enough profit already."

J. B. Turner, 955 Portage—"Let's put the government out. They are robbers."

Alf J. Westcott, 1040 Fairfield—"I think it's terrible. I certainly think the prices should be brought down. If it was only 15 cents a bottle it would probably make some sense."

J. E. M. Wilson, 113 Gorge—"These new prices are terrible and I think they should be evened out."

R. Pollock, 1017 Oliphant—"If I had a gall bladder I'd kick about the prices, but as it is it doesn't concern me any more."

Fred Hughes, 1130 Monterey—"The government is making too much money for what the public gets. If they were getting 100 per cent good liquor it would be, OK but we are only getting one-third liquor and two-thirds water. The public is being gypped."

T. H. Mansfield, 1670 Earlston—"I supported the government but I certainly don't support it on this. The government has gone into the profiteering business and it's scandalous. They've gone too far."

Mrs. C. Robbins, 196 Homer—"The government gets enough out of liquor now without adding to it."

Morris Vickers, 1148 Dallas—"The government is taking too big a percentage and it's very unfair. I'm a teetotaller myself but I think this might upset the government."

Joseph F. Griffin, 122 Moss—"The increases are naturally too high. I think it's the right place to put a tax on but the government seems to be putting on too many taxes."

R. Mel Smith, 2389 Central—"I don't use liquor much but I disagree and don't see why they should increase the price."

L. R. Thornton, 2723 Victor—"These increases aren't warranted when you compare it against how badly the stuff is watered down."

Gordon Ash, 2348 Glasgow—"I can't afford to buy it at the price it is now, I think the government has gone overboard. It is only promoting bootlegging and home-made hooch. They are making enough out of liquor as it is. They are killing the goose that laid the golden egg."

William A. Clifford, 1328 Vining—"It certainly looks unfair but I don't use the stuff myself and actually don't care what they do with it."

James P. Nicol, 3107 Harriet—"I've certainly said a lot about it during the past few days. I feel the distilleries' increase might be warranted but I can't see why the government has to jump it by another two-thirds."

J. H. Wilkinson, 1547 Edgeware—"I certainly don't think the increases are warranted. I can see no cause for it. The government must be making a tremendous profit out of liquor as it is."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THERE are certain magazines that people read but are afraid to be seen buying. The customers walk up to the cash desk in a furtive way, cupping a hand over the title.

"I'll take this," they say, then fling down the money and shove the magazine under their coats so nervously that other people in the store suspect them of shoplifting.

These customers are nervous because the front page of the magazine carries a large message: "Are You Secretly Love-Starved? See Page 33."

And if they meet an acquaintance in the store they assume a sanctimonious look and try to pretend they have just bought the Family Herald. Some louts call the bluff by actually grabbing the magazine and asking: "What's this you have here?" Then the timid one can escape only by answering: "It's 'Glare' magazine—a fine book. Heh! Heh! I always buy it for the articles on the United Nations."

One of the magazines that people hide is a curious publication called "Fate," which contains "true stories of the strange and the known." You seldom see any customer carrying it from the newsstand, and yet the copies seem to vanish each month. Who knows? Ghosts and poltergeists may buy them, to see what kind of reviews they are getting.

However, some denizens of this world buy the magazine too. I buy it myself, and smuggle it from the store like a package of French photographs, in case someone thinks I'm off my trolley.

Then I sneak into a corner with the book and enjoy a feast of information about flying saucers, spirit messages and "things that go bump in the night."

For instance: The phantom drummer that plays at Cortachy Castle in Scotland whenever a member of the Ogilvie family is about to die. The sound has haunted the earls of Airlie since an earl long ago placed a drummer inside his own drum and had him thrown from the tower. Numbers of people claim to have heard it. Each time it plays (the chronicles declare) an Ogilvie dies.

What about David Lang, a Tennessee farmer who vanished into thin air when he was walking across a field in full sight of his wife, two children and two visitors, on Sept. 23, 1880?

The grass had been cropped short by horses. There were no obstructing stones or trees. Lang disappeared as though the earth had caved in beneath him. But the ground was unbroken. Limestone bedrock lay a few feet below the soil.

Next spring, the children noticed a circle of rank grass in the spot where their father had disappeared. Animals and insects shunned the place. The little girl gave a cry. Faint, and far-off, she heard the voice of a man crying for help. The girl was sure the voice was her father's. She heard it next day, and the day after, but more faintly, until it vanished.

Had Lang, as the writer of the article suggests, "fallen into the fourth dimension," and tried vainly to find his way back?

That's the kind of stuff you read in Fate magazine. But I had better be careful. If the editor of Fate doesn't like what I say, he might make ME disappear.

Selling membership tickets to raise money for Langford Fire Department's proposed new ambulance is Herbert Bruch, Esquimalt MLA. Buying a ticket is Mrs. Treasure Essery, who recently was thankful for quick ambulance service during an emergency at her home.—(Colonist photo by Alec Merriman.)

$4,000 Needed

Ambulance Drive Opens

Langford Volunteer Fire Department yesterday opened a campaign to raise $4,000 toward the purchase of a more modern ambulance and equipment.

Money will be raised by the sale of $1 memberships which will entitle members to use of the ambulance at a 50 per cent reduction in charges.

At the firemen's ball March 16 at Langford all members will be entered in a draw for a 21-inch television set and several electric appliances.

Langford firemen have provided ambulance service for five years on a voluntary basis to Colwood, View Royal, Metchosin, Happy Valley, Langford and Mill Bay districts.

MODERN ONE NEEDED

For the first year an old ARP ambulance was used. A 1944 former air force ambulance is now in use.

"It has now outgrown its usefulness and a custom-built ambulance of larger design, with comfortable stretchers and the latest oxygen therapy treatment equipment is required," Fire Chief Rod Bayles said last night.

Rates now charged are not adequate to finance the new ambulance and rather than increase the rates it has been decided to sell memberships, he said.

The Langford ambulance averages 120 calls a year.

Dr. Chisholm Pessimistic

Race Suicide Foreseen

WINNIPEG (CP)—The worst thing in store for the younger generation is the prospect of "turning out like us," says Dr. Brock Chisholm.

He warned a public meeting that if man behaves "only a little longer" as he now is and has behaved in the past, he will probably destroy the human race.

The human race will have to break the habit of accepting all the attitudes of its ancestors as right, said Dr. Chisholm, former head of the World Health Organization.

One of the main jobs of the present generation, he said, is to rid children of certain taboos and give them free imagination.

It is nonsense to say conscience is "a small voice within each of us telling us what is right and wrong."

Initially, conscience is the early conforming to local customs as interpreted by a child's parents. When their authority is no longer adequate, "a bigger stick, God, is brought in."

"The next step is really dangerous—when the mother tells her child God knows what he is thinking. This is thought-control. . . .

"We must liberate our children so they can judge everything we've believed in without a sense of disloyalty, shame or sin."

Dr. Chisholm also said Canadians at international meetings maintain an "absolute taboo" against the mention of birth control.

He criticized the U.S. and Canada for failing to help [illegible] with their birth rate problems. At international meetings the Canadian delegate "sits like a stuffed mummy . . . he never says a word about birth control because he would not be allowed to."

Dr. Chisholm said the United Nations' population commission, year after year, brings in "terrifying reports" covering birth rate but it never brings in any recommendation.

There is always a majority of countries at international conferences that are under "control" of the Roman Catholic Church and there is a taboo on discussions of birth control, he said.

Garden Notes

Old King Midas Counts Bulbs

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Those gladiolus corms you dug up last month should be nearing the end of their preliminary "curing" period by now, and just about ready to be cleaned up and transferred from warm storage to the coolest spot you can find in your basement.

During the curing period, as I told you earlier this fall, the bulbs are best handled in shallow boxes or seed flats, piled not more than two layers deep so the air can get at them, and kept in a fairly warm room—around 70 degrees is ideal.

COSY CORNER

In my case, the flats are stacked on my workbench in the furnace room, the coziest part of our basement. The foliage was cut off just above the top of the bulb at harvesting time, and as each layer was arranged in its tray, it was given a puff of all-purpose garden dust to control thrips and fungus infections.

During this period of warm storage, a curious change takes place in the tissues of the bulbs. A layer of cork-like cells forms on their surface, and particularly on the base of the new bulb, and when this process is completed, the old withered bulb attached to the base of the new one can be wrenched off without any trouble at all. If it doesn't come off cleanly and all in one piece, it is a sure sign curing is not complete, and a further period in warm storage is indicated.

To my way of thinking, the clean-up chore on the glad bulbs is just about the most satisfying jobs in the off-season of gardening. Settled down in a comfortable stool by the workbench in the cosy furnace room, a good light overhead and the necessary tools and materials close to hand, I feel like old King Midas himself while handling the annual "take" from the gladiolus patch.

BEAUTIFUL BULB

Did you ever see anything quite so beautiful as a freshly-cleaned glad bulb? With the dirty roots and the old, spent bulb wrenched off, and the weather-beaten outer skin peeling away, the new corms emerge in shimmering beauty.

Some of them have their shoulders draped in a shining golden bodice of papery skin. Many of them reveal the color of their flowers in the tint of their flesh—a pinkish tinge to the red-flowered kinds, and golden flesh for the yellow-blooming types.

Even one of their diseases is beautiful. Some bulbs will be decorated with a beauty spot, about half the size of your little fingernail, in glistening chestnut brown. This is gladiolus scab, and while it is not a serious infection, each tiny scab is best dug out with the point of a knife and the wound dusted with sulphur.

GREAT TEMPTATION

While the temptation is great to arrange a bowl of these shimmering beauties to decorate the dining-room table, the only safe place for them is in an uncomfortably cool place where the temperature hovers between 35 and 50 degrees. It isn't easy to find such a spot in the modern home, and I spent the best part of a month testing various sections of our basement before I found one corner where the winter temperature stayed consistently below 50 degrees.

My bulbs are stored in old nylon stockings hung from the rafters in this cool corner. The varieties are kept separated by strings tied around the stockings, with the name on a plant label dropped in among them. Each bulb, before it goes into its stocking, is given a good squeeze, and any which feel soft to the touch are sent to the post-mortem table, where the knife often reveals a core of infectious brown rot extending through the centre from top to bottom.

Labor Strife Costs Less In Lost Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Time lost through industrial disputes in Canada during the first 10 months of the year totalled 1,204,945 mandays, the labor department reported Wednesday. This compared with 1,155,265 in the same period of 1955.

This year, there were 201 strikes and lockouts involving 86,184 workers compared with 142 stoppages involving 57,108 workers in the corresponding time last year.

Girl Beaten, Assaulted

Stepfather to Hang For Strangling Child

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP) — Gordon Buck, 28, was sentenced Thursday to be hanged Feb. 19 for the murder of his nine-year-old stepdaughter, Heather Mabel Rinderer, who was strangled and beaten to death.

Mr. Justice H. J. Sullivan's voice trembled noticeably as he uttered the traditional "and may God have mercy on your soul."

Pathologist Dr. F. P. Sparks testified that the girl died from multiple face and jaw fractures and strangulation.

He said she had been criminally assaulted shortly before her death and may have been assaulted a month before her death about Sept. 8.

Testifying in his own defence, Buck said he wrapped a pair of pyjamas around hte girl's neck to stop her nose from bleeding.

He said he slapped her in the face when she made noises after he told her to be quiet. He thought the pyjamas would act as a tourniquet and stop the bleeding caused by his slap.

Buck said he called vainly to a neighbor for help. When he realized the girl was dead he panicked and hid her body in some bushes near his cabin.

LED TO SCENE

The girl's body was found by police a short distance from Buck's home near Williams Lake. They had been led to the scene by Buck 10 days after Heather was reported missing.

Crown counsel D. F. McNeil told the court that Buck at first told searchers he had sent the girl to stay with an uncle while her mother, Buck's common-law wife, was in hospital.

Forger Took Two Cheques From Hotel

David Craig of Ucluelet pleaded guilty in city police court to a charge of forging a cheque for $16, and to another charge of stealing two cheques from the Ritz Hotel.

Craig admitted making out the first cheque in favor of himself in the name of a contractor, and cashing it Nov. 12 at the hotel. Five days later, he admitted, he took the two cheques, with a value of $41.31, from the hotel office.

He was remanded to today for sentence.

The two were Wilfred Black, 3750 Press, and James Loftus, Drake Hotel. They were stopped by a hotel detective and turned over to city police.

Benefit of the doubt was given Ralph William Pashley, 1866 Taylor, in Saanich police court yesterday afternoon. He had pleaded not guilty to a speeding charge.

Police said accused was paced for one-quarter mile on Richmond Road on Nov. 3, north from Veterans' Hospital. His speed was reported at about 40 miles an hour.

Mr. Pashley said he had noticed the police car, and while it was behind him checked his speedometer at less than 30 miles an hour 11 times. The charge was dismissed.

Welfare Committee Gets Job

Council Shifts Hot Sink Issue

Welfare committee of city council was handed the job yesterday of recommending what should be done about the city's controversial requirement that every housekeeping room have a sink.

Public works committee recommended two weeks ago that the plumbing requirements of the Regulation of Dwellings By-law, including the sink provision, not be enforced for three years.

But a large group of housekeeping-room tenants and owners was dissatisfied still, and yesterday a deligation of the Victoria branch of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association appeared before council, bearing a petition of 279 names asking for amendment of the by-law or drafting of a new one.

Tom Williams, who presented the petition, said a three-year delay would have a detrimental effect by causing prolonged uncertainty among owners and tenants.

To require that the specified plumbing must be installed before an establishment could be sold, he said, would result in undesirable, possibly disastrous continuation of ownership in some cases. Property otherwise suitable for establishment of housekeeping rooms would be penalized by the prohibitive outlay of money to meet the plumbing requirements.

Some owners, Mr. Williams said, could not install additional plumbing because of structural difficulties; some hadn't the financial means.

NOT TURNED IN

Herbert Watson, who also appeared, said that in addition to the 279 names on the petition, 100 others had been taken but not yet turned in.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson wanted to know why landlords had not complied with the by-law since 1949, when it was passed.

Mr. Williams said he understood there "were no teeth in it" until the new zoning by-law was passed this year.

"Then why did 250 or 300 comply with the regulations?" asked Ald. Wilson.

The people who had complied, she said, were not going to be very pleased if the other half of the owners got away without complying.

"They can charge more rent, can't they?" said Mr. Williams.

Ald. Wilson also questioned the number of owners affected. She said that 225 notices had been sent out by the health department in October, and that all but 250 had now complied with the regulations.

Ald. J. Donald Smith contended, however, that owners and tenants were equally affected.

Ald. Curtis said he thought sometimes that "certain people in a professional line wish to see certain standards arrived at, maximum standards that would be very desirable if they could be reached," but that what was desired occasionally went beyond what was possible.

Ald. Smith said he had visited many rooming houses and talked to owners and tenants, and "they are agreed on one main point, they do not want a sink in their rooms."

Ald. Wilson, chairman of the welfare committee, remained skeptical. She didn't think the requirements that there should be a sink in every room where there was cooking and that there should be a bathroom for every three families were extreme, she said.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow was skeptical too. If so many were so worried, he said, "why aren't they here today?"

(Only two or three persons came with the delegates.)

But Ald. Smith said the hall had been packed when the petition and resolution had been unanimously endorsed, and "the reason they're not here is that they delegated these people."

Inco Metals at work in Canada

The development of stainless steel has produced many remarkable changes in both the appearance and convenience of Canadian homes. Stainless steel sinks made with Inco Nickel are a good example. They not only brighten and beautify the kitchen, they make household tasks far easier. The manufacture of stainless steel sinks, using nickel supplied by Inco, has become a thriving industry in Canada, providing employment for many Canadians.

Inco Nickel for half a million Canadian sinks*

Stainless steel sinks made with INCO NICKEL help provide jobs in Canada

Ten years ago, hardly any homes in Canada had stainless steel sinks. But a few Canadian housewives tried the new sinks and thought they were wonderful—wouldn't stain or chip, were so easy to keep bright and clean, and best of all, glasses and dishes that were accidentally dropped didn't break as easily.

That was the beginning of a new and thriving Canadian industry. Today, most of the new homes being built in Canada have Canadian-made stainless steel sinks. And practically all of these sinks contain Inco Nickel.

Ore from the mines near Sudbury, Ontario, is milled, smelted and refined by Inco here in Canada. Refined nickel is sold to other Canadian companies to make stainless steel. This stainless steel goes to the Canadian firms that make the sinks. And Canadian builders install them in the homes.

These operations—from the time the ore is mined until the finished sink is installed—provide jobs for thousands of Canadian workmen. That's how Inco Nickel helps promote the growth and development of industry in Canada.

Many Are Deaf to Appeals

DECEMBER'S first seven days will be Safe Driving Week in British Columbia by proclamation of the government. This is something which should have the widest support, for if only one life is saved as a result, the effort will have been rewarded. British Columbia needs safe driving more urgently than anything else in the field of public protection.

Yet if real and lasting improvement is to be attained something more than one week in 52 dedicated to the precepts and practice of good behavior at the wheel will have to be the objective. There have been campaigns like this many times in the past, mostly limited to local or regional scope but all representing earnest and well organized endeavor by traffic authorities and citizens' groups. The fatality and injury statistics are all too painful proof that whatever lessons may have been learned during these special weeks have soon been forgotten.

The plain fact of the matter is that many drivers to whom this sort of approach is made just aren't responsive to appeals to sanity and decency—or at any rate not for long. While fully supporting Safe Driving Week as one step in the right direction, we remain firmly convinced that it will be of little enduring avail unless accompanied by greater sternness. There are drivers—in increasing numbers judging from the appalling statistics published yesterday—on whom appeals to reason leave no impression. With them punishment or fear of punishment seems to be the only method of improving the black record.

For these people, as for unruly children, the worst punishment is loss of the toy with which the harm is done—as witness the cries of anguish when licences are suspended. But licences are only pieces of paper whose temporary loss fails to deter the defiant driver. The practice of imposing a fine—too often a very small fine—on those who drive while disqualified has proved only partially effective. Unlike most other forms of wrongdoing this offence without exception is committed consciously and in disobedience of authority. It should be punished accordingly.

There are two ways in which the courts could instill a healthy fear of the consequences of driving while under legal suspension. One is to jail the convicted driver without the option of a fine; the other is to impound the car driven for a period long enough to make the lesson felt. The courts could choose according to the circumstances which penalty fitted the case, or in extreme cases could impose both. If it became understood that these were the penalties awaiting those who drive dangerously and then again in defiance of orders, more good would be done than by 52 appeals.

It Must Be Free of Politics

THERE has been a report in Ottawa that Mr. Brooke Claxton, the former minister of defence, is in line to head the new Canada Council. The report may or may not have serious foundation but something must have tied his name to the post. Mr. Claxton was not a particularly inspiring defence minister, but he exhibited no tendency which would suggest that culture rather than guns or guided missiles was more suited to his talents. If he has been active in the promotion of the liberal arts then his light has been hidden under a bushel.

Many men have unsuspected affinities and this alone would not necessarily disbar him. Even if he were aesthetically equipped for the position, however, his appointment would be an unwise one. It would tar the Canada Council with a political brush hard to erase. It would imply that the announced delegation of council activities to non-government hands was a phrase and not an intention. It would suggest that this new body created another home for patronage, and there would be no limit to the applicants seeking a refuge therein. All this in fact even if it were discovered that in secret the former defence minister were a devoted practitioner of the arts.

If there is one thing clear it is that the new Canada Council must be staffed and directed by persons known to be actively interested in the cultural aspects of Canadian life. Recognition of the need for such a council is proof in itself that no great difficulty exists in choosing properly qualified men to run it. In this day and age artists no matter their medium are not the starry-eyed professors of popular fable, and the country abounds with individuals wedded to artistic aims and with a keen knowledge of how best to promote them. An individual like Dr. Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto, for instance, a proved administrator and a man of cultural attainment and purpose, reflects the type suited to be entrusted with this new and important agency.

It would be a serious disappointment if there were any tinge at all of political preference when the Canada Council comes to be set up. That would tarnish it from the start and impair the great work that lies waiting for it to do.

A Commonwealth Need

THE events of the last few weeks have emphasized again the crucial need of a Commonwealth news exchange, organized on the pattern of other world telegraph and cable services. During the height of the Middle East crisis it was very difficult for newspapers in this country to find clear, unbiased and objective news reporting from the scene. On the Pacific Coast the most reliable reports on Commonwealth action were those of British journals flown here from publishing houses in the United Kingdom. They told of steps taken in succession at New Delhi, Canberra, Wellington, Karachi and other Commonwealth centres in verbatim reports which were unbiased.

Unfortunately such advices even at airmail speeds were from 48 to 72 hours behind events in the swiftly moving crisis. Meanwhile the existing news services of the free world were functioning, under heavy cable loads and no doubt as objectively as the circumstances permitted. But this did not carry from Commonwealth land to Commonwealth land the full story of the reactions in our national capitals. It is probable that only a specifically organized and dedicated Commonwealth news service could have done so, and there is none in precisely that category as yet. The international tensions of the last few weeks would have been far more understandable if such a service had been in existence and functioning.

While this stresses a crucial lack in Commonwealth intelligence aids at the moment of a crisis, the same case could be argued from the long-range standpoint. Canada, for all of its efforts, knows far too little about our sister nations in the Commonwealth. The same thing without doubt is true of each of them. This is not to suggest that governments do not correspond, because the reverse is true; but simply that the day-to-day news of Commonwealth lands is neither being gathered nor disseminated to the degree that it both could and should be. After all, the wider the confines of the Commonwealth, the more need of a working, practical and informed communion of minds.

Interpreting the News

Molotov's Stock Is Rising

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

THE re-emergence of Vyacheslav Molotov, into a more prominent role in Moscow probably means an important realignment of Kremlin factions and forces is taking place, in the continuing power struggle that began with Stalin's death.

It almost certainly indicates that Nikita Khrushchev has suffered a setback in power and position—that his opponents in the Soviet leadership have firmed up the coalition they formed against him last summer and are in the process of executing an assault against him.

The key question is where the Soviet army stands and the probabilities are that Defence Minister Marshal Zhukov has thrown his immense weight against Khrushchev because of army officers' alarm at the danger to Soviet positions in Eastern Europe as a result of Khrushchev's policies.

A key personality in the Kremlin manoeuvring is likely a man little known in the west—Mikhail Suslov. He holds the position of a secretary in the Central Committee of the Communist party, with rank up to the present time second only to Khrushchev himself.

Information reaching the West through Yugoslavia indicates Suslov last July at a central committee meeting led a successful campaign to defeat Khrushchev on his policy toward President Tito of Yugoslavia.

In any case, whether Suslov or someone else is pulling the strings in the anti-Khrushchev operation, the way in which Molotov has come back into the limelight makes it seem more likely that for the present at least it is not Molotov who is playing the role of king-maker or king-breaker.

The two new positions which Molotov has acquired in the last two days are important but they are probably not those he would choose as stepping stones to the top position in the Kremlin hierarchy. On the one hand, Molotov has apparently the job of Communist party supervision over the Soviet arts. On the other, he has been named minister of state control, a job which can be unimportant or important depending on the man who runs it and his authority. Essentially it is an auditing and inspection organization with some semi-police powers.

It would be a mistake, however, to jump to the conclusion that Nikita Khrushchev "has had it." The man is fast on his feet.

Molotov's re-emergence into positions of authority is less important for its own significance than as an outward indication of an inside melee in Moscow. It very likely is the precursor of other important personal changes.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE other day when there was a demonstration before the Russian UN delegation in New York—about Hungary — the protestants carried a placard bearing Mr. A. A. Sobolev's name.

The first three letters of his surname were capitalized. You know, of course, what that implied.

Now this wasn't very polite, although politeness goes by the boards when emotions are white-hot. Come to that, Mr. Khrushchev wasn't very polite either last weekend in Moscow when he told certain of his guests that he'd bury them.

Were it not that he probably never heard of the Earl of Chesterfield, his upbringing obviously having been neglected, I'd say his offence was the worst of the two.

For SOB, if I am to believe the Oregonian, is on the way up, and not meaning the kind of sob that goes with a tear. President Truman was the genl who made this contracted form of insult respectable.

* * *

He was not indulging in philology, was the president. As a matter of fact he forgot he was the president and just let himself go at an American columnist who aroused his ire. And even though George Washington is on record as defining swearing as "that unmeaning and abominable custom," U.S. presidents are human.

And, therefore, apt to fall from grace.

The Oregonian argues that such presidential utterance elevated what previously had been considered obscene, to wit: SOB. The idea is that if an American president uses a word or phrase this wipes out any "pool-hall stigma" that may have been attached to it.

A nice thesis, albeit a bit convenient.

Anyway the columnist to whom Mr. Truman directed this epithet has seized on it with aplomb and written an autobiography titled "Confessions of an SOB." Undoubtedly it will be a best-seller.

This because, if again I am to follow the Oregonian, novelists nowadays use four-letter words that not long ago would never have passed a publisher. True, oh true, in some cases, only not due to an evolution in language but to the idea that this will bring in the shekels.

* * *

The Oregonian has in mind, although I hope it stops there and doesn't ignore George Washington entirely—after all, what one president says should be as persuasive as what another says — those familiar little endearments "d——n" and "h——l." I have written them in the form the Portland paper condemns as hypocrisy rather than decency.

Hypocrisy is rather a strong word but I agree that if one is going to print these terms it is silly to be squeamish. Either you should leave it all to the imagination or be frank.

However this thesis doesn't bless all four-letter words. There really is a limit. The kind that fill best-sellers of a certain ilk are simply putrid and vulgar. A good test of epithets, I think, is to imagine what words you'd like your wife or sweetheart not to hear in your presence.

As for yourself, being a man, you'll know all about swearing, having indulged widely at the adolescent stage of life and, perhaps, unable to contain yourself even now when all steamed up about something, still liable to emulate Mr. Truman.

Actually George Washington was right. Swearing is unmeaning, and never more so than when the vocabularly is restricted to infinitely boring four-letter words. Now if one could really swear, vividly and picturesquely in rolling grandiloquent phrases, it might be different. But four letters wouldn't be nearly enough.

Letter from London

Suez: A Lifeline or a Convenience?

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist Correspondent

AT THE moment Britain is more concerned with the future than the past. The flash of hot war, the steamy international atmosphere and the uncertainties of tomorrow have, of course, had their repercussions on the political atmosphere. There are many more people supporting Sir Anthony Eden today than there were at the beginning of November. The broad argument that he has been justified by events, if by nothing else, has been sinking into the political consciousness of the nation. Criticism is much less violent.

The attitude today is that Eden could have done everything he did do with the support of world opinion had he been prepared to wait three or four days. Recent events have proved that a Security Council veto can be speedily overcome with a special session of the Assembly and that had things been allowed to take their course in the Assembly it is more than likely that an offer of Anglo-French forces would have been adequate without the flash of hot war.

Speculation on the course of history in given circumstances is not, however, very profitable. At the moment Britain is more concerned about putting things to right. The main question is whether internationally Sir Anthony Eden is acceptable as Britain's leader, and there is a growing opinion amongst the Conservatives that it will not be very long before he receives the traditional British honor of a peerage and consequent transfer of activities to the House of Lords.

Apart from international considerations it would also help the consolidation of opinion within both the country and the Conservative party. Eden has been the victim of too much harsh criticism to retain effective leadership.

* * *

None of this is to say that Eden was wrong. Even those most critical of his action seem to be reconciled by the element of justification and staggered by the extent of Russian intervention in the Middle East. Academic argument is much more concerned now as to whether the prime minister knew the full extent of this before he started, and if he did that he made a tactical political blunder in not taking the nation into his confidence. If he did not appreciate the full ramifications the best that can be said is that a morally wrong initiative has been justified by events—but whether it has solved anything is another matter altogether.

The transcendant point internationally is that Sir Anthony stands condemned of acting in defiance of the United Nations. The argument is that if Britain is to recover any sort of status within that organization it can do so only with a new leader. It is believed also that such a move would greatly help to re-establish healthy relations with the United States, though the view widely held here is that America's annoyance is much more that we did something on the eve of the presidential election than that we did something.

The broad concensus of opinion is that Sir Anthony Eden will resign but not immediately; but that there will be no change in the character of the government and no general election. Sir Anthony will be sacrificed for doing the right thing in the wrong way, rather like the policeman who arrests a man on a hunch and proves his case afterwards on the grounds that if he had not the criminal would have got away.

* * *

So the political atmosphere in Britain has changed considerably. A little while ago Eden's motives and actions were suspect. He regained a certain amount of moral prestige when he called off the action before his personal objective had been achieved—the occupation of the whole length of the Suez Canal—after having told the nation that his aim was to separate the combatants. One thing at least is certain. No one anywhere can accuse us of gaining any national advantage from the action.

The Suez Canal is closed. It is likely to remain closed for anything up to 18 months. This is going to have serious repercussions at home—but it is doubtful whether Eden will not be proved wrong on his often challenged assertion that the Suez Canal is Europe's lifeline. If it is then we are in for a tough time indeed. If it is not—and most people believe that this aspect was exaggerated—then it merely provides another reason for elevating the prime minister to the House of Lords.

Shipping people and even the oil companies talk of "difficulties and complications" rather than a major crisis. Industry is a trifle fearful that the increased cost of fuel and freight may increase manufacturing costs and the value of exports. There will be fuel rationing apart from the voluntary 10 per cent cut now in force. Economists are more concerned, however, with the effect of inflationary tendencies which have shown signs of being checked.

One of the main shipping troubles is the inability of South African ports to deal with the increased volume of traffic. Transit delays have been accentuated by waits in South Africa—but these may be overcome. Tanker runs are being revised to reduce haulage. There is no doubt that increased quantities of fuel will be obtained from across the Atlantic, with consequent relief to tankers but with considerable drain on dollar resources.

Construction o big tankers—there are more than a dozen above 50,000 tons on order or in construction in British shipyards—is being rushed, and if necessary they will be commandeered by the government.

In fact if the general international situation does not deteriorate further the argument is that within a year the Suez Canal will have been proved no more than a convenience rather than a lifeline.

Precept and Practice

(From The Winnipeg Tribune)

FOR months the Bank of Canada has been issuing embossed warnings about the threat of inflation. By tightening credit restrictions, ordinary citizens are being "voluntarily" discouraged from building houses or stores or warehouses. Consumers are finding it harder to buy washing machines or phonographs or stoves on instalments.

But what about the federal government itself?

For all the attention government departments are paying to its warnings, the Bank of Canada might just as well have been whistling a song about a houn' dog in blue suede shoes.

For the first six months of the present fiscal year, that is up to the beginning of October, all government departments with the exception of veterans' affairs and mines spent more than they did in the corresponding period of last year.

Once again it is the old story out of Ottawa—ordinary citizens are too stupid to spend their money without official guidance, but government spending goes unchecked.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

WHEN does a barber go for lunch? Pete Peavoy, whose barber shop is situated in the basement under the Toronto Men's Press Club and is therefore known to newspapermen all across the land, says he goes without lunch on an average of two days a week, and the other three he manages to sneak out to the back and have a brought-in sandwich and a paper cup of coffee.

"What can you do?" he asks. "Things in a barber shop begin to speed up about 11 a.m. By noon, they are going full bang. The pressure keeps up all through the afternoon. Whether you have three chairs or 10 chairs, there are usually four or five people sitting reading the magazines at all times during this period. Many of them wait 10, 15 minutes for their turn at the first vacant chair. Can you simply fold up your sheet and walk out on the man that's next?"

"All men must eat," I mentioned.

"Not barbers," said Pete. "I get Joe, our shoeshine boy, to slip out and bring me in a sandwich and a milk shake or a cup of coffee. But if he doesn't do it very circumspectly, and take them out to the back without being noticed, the customer who is next, when I slip out to scoff the sandwich, is almost certain to swell up with indignation."

"I imagine," I suggested, "that you have certain customers who are old friends, who would be quite content to . . ."

"It's a curious thing about the barbering profession," says Pete. "Your old friends, and customers, seldom come in at lunch time."

"Why don't you get a sign printed," I asked, "which reads 'This chair vacant for one hour after this customer is finished'. You could move it from chair to chair, during the noon hour, as each of your barbers went out for lunch.

"And lose eight or 10 haircuts?" said Pete indignantly. "Listen: there is an etiquette in the barbering business. And like all etiquettes it is based on economics. No, the theme is, make hay while the sun shines."

If your barber wears a lean and hungry look the next time you are in for a haircut, just ponder the plight of this good man, without whom what a frowsy lot we would be.

Letters to the Editor

Western Cowardice

I think it is very evident that our Victoria newspapers are lukewarm in their thinking over the attitude of Britain and France in their effort to curb the Egyptian attempt to dominate the Middle East and break their treaty with Britain. And also over the action of Ottawa in becoming a traitor to this British Commonwealth in not supporting Britain's action in Egypt as other parts of the Commonwealth did. Also their desire to follow the lead of the U.S.A. instead of Britain in that matter.

And further we have the [illegible] Egypt would not allow the QOR to enter Egypt because they were as English as the English, and have them hung up in Halifax for Russians to laugh at. And then we have the absurd and cowardly offer of the United Nations to help Egyptians to clear the part of the canal they blocked after the cease-fire was accepted. No offer was made by the UN to help Britain and France in their job.

The UN could not attempt to stop Russia in their massacre of Hungarians. Why? Because they are afraid of Russia. Since when have we become cowards? Evidently since we joined the United Nations. We fear war, but only a fool believes that war can be avoided with Russia for they know nothing of history or Bible teaching.

Pigeon Pie for the Dean

With all this talk about pigeons making their home on the roof of Christ Church Cathedral, why not make a cage trap, put food on the inside and when the pigeons go in, down flips the door.

You could make a cage of four pieces of two by four and four pieces of two by two and about 25 or 30 feet of chicken wire. Cut many openings in the sides and ends and you will catch as many pigeons as you have openings. The pigeons could be slaughtered and donated to the free food stall at the public market.

It is a very delicate dish. I ate pigeon or squab pie in my younger days and in fact we fed them to the entire family, serving it the same as chicken pie.

Now, Dean Whitlow, don't you think this suggestion is so much better than trying to scare, electrocute, shoot, or using tangle foot to catch the pigeons. If you will catch me a few pigeons I will make you the tastiest pie that you ever ate. By the way, any person handy with saw, hammer and nails will make you a good pigeon trap and perhaps he will take as his pay pigeons and make pigeon pie, as it is really good.

Overcrowded Schools

Before the voters without children attending school get too set in their minds about the coming school building referendum, just let them ponder a minute.

The junior high schools are very overcrowded and the students can not work to the best of their ability, often having to miss vital subjects because of lack of facilities. Surely we voters can't begrudge a few extra dollars a year so that our future citizens, business men and civic heads, will have the necessary background and interest in their education today.

Surely Not a Woman

I don't think I ever heard anything so stupid as putting holly baskets on lamp-posts and, in addition, the demand of the Chamber of Commerce, according to reports, that the city council bear the entire cost. Of course they mean the citizens and taxpayers.

It would indeed be only fair to ask: What business will supply the holly and, of course, the new baskets? Because they won't remove the former tomfoolery flowers from the baskets.

I have always thought flower baskets on poles a childish thing, and a great expense out of the city coffers. I doubt if any of the so-called tourists ever look at them or even see them; and I know the birds do not nest there and whistle for them to look up. There may be a few who see them and possibly wonder, as I have, who concocted the idea. Surely not a woman, because I think they would have more common sense.

There is absolutely no need for either flower baskets or this asinine and expensive suggestion.

Let the holly stay on its bushes or, if merchants want to dispose of it, let them or the rich donate the entire foolishness.

(Mrs.) A. MARSHALL.

Vital Teaching

This has to do with an article in today's paper (Nov. 21) about Dr. Brock Chisholm, where in a speech in Winnipeg he accuses parents of being "cowards" who send their children to Sunday school. In so doing, he also says it is the "ultimate in ridiculousness," also that the parents "send them to Sunday school but do not believe themselves."

The truth of the matter is that this country, as well as the United States, grew to the strength they have in world prestige today because most always have their governments been filled by men who were raised by Sunday school teachings and in its attendance, and who considered those teachings the most vital things in their lives.

Also regarding the parents he accuses: if they do not go to Sunday school and send their children, it is because they know it is right, and wished they themselves had more of its teaching, and had adhered to it more in their lives.

Freedom of Opinion

I would like to draw the attention of the public who may have read a letter by a person named Partridge to Articles 18, 19 and 20 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, adopted by the UN in December, 1948. Many have not been privileged to read same so I reproduce them.

Article 18—Everyone has the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion; this right includes freedom to change his religion or belief, and freedom, either alone or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in teaching, practice, worship or observance.

Article 19—Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.

Article 20—Everyone has the right to freedom of peaceful assembly and association.

No doubt Mr. Partridge acted in haste or ignorance or both, and if so is exonerated.

Centennial Project

Old Fort Victoria Replica Proposed

By DAVID BROWN

Full-scale federal and provincial government financial assistance was visualized yesterday by a Chamber of Commerce official in a suggestion to "perpetuate Victoria's history" through Gorge Park development.

Arnold Webb, chamber secretary, said it was "quite conceivable" that such a centennial year proposal, embodying erection of a replica of the old Fort Victoria, and an Indian village, maritime and pioneer museums could be achieved without the use of municipal centennial grants.

"Development of the Gorge as a park is high on the Capital Improvement District Commission agenda," he pointed out. "And the Dominion government certainly would be interested in a historical museum."

He foresees the plan as a tremendous tourist attraction, perhaps enhanced by a garrison at the fort dressed in uniforms worn in Victoria's early years.

SELF-SUSTAINING

"Beauty of the scheme is that such a park could be self-sustaining," he said, "with a token entrance fee plowed back into further development."

Precedent of a self-paying historical site is in Halifax, where the naval museum in the old Citadel made a net profit of $3,000 last year.

The merit in this project, said Mr. Webb, is the historical reason behind it.

"Victoria has a wealth of history behind it," he said. "It would be a pity to let it slip through our hands at the time it could be brought out for perpetuity — during the centennial celebrations."

The suggested project was disclosed yesterday by James Harvey who will present his proposal at a dinner meeting of the chamber's civic affairs group Tuesday.

Plans also may be submitted to the B.C. Centennial Committee for consideration.

The government has indicated it favors centennial projects with definite historical significance.

Geoffrey Edgelow, Greater Centennial committee chairman, said that there "should be a directive" from the provincial government on how the money should be spent.

LEFT TO MUNICIPALITIES

But while indicating its preference, the government said the grants would be left up to individual municipalities to do whatever they saw fit.

Greater Victoria municipalities are still undecided on a joint project. Saanich strongly urges a new wing for Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"We all realize there is a desperate need for more hospital rooms," Mr. Edgelow said. "But there is already a plan for the hospital, and the need for more space would have resulted in a new wing anyway, without making it a centennial year project."

He said he was "quite encouraged" that something which never normally would be built might be considered in the birthday year.

"The government should stick to its guns," he said, "in supporting centennial projects of an unusual nature."

'No Premeditation'

Liquor Blamed For Theft Bid

Drink was blamed in city police court yesterday by a youth who pleaded guilty to attempted armed hold-up.

Grant Shaver, 20, of 2829 Cedar Hill Road, told Magistrate Henry C. Hall he had been drinking heavily before the incident.

"There was definitely no premeditation," he said.

Accused with Shaver are Donald William Thomson, 23, of Mt. Newton Crossroad, and James Proudlove, 19, of 2811 Adelaide.

All had pleaded guilty, and yesterday Magistrate Hall declined to accept an application by James Proudfoot, counsel for Proudlove, for a change of plea to not guilty.

FRANK ADMITTANCE

The application was opposed by prosecutor Alan Bigelow, who said an affidavit submitted by Mr. Proudfoot was not sufficient to allow a change of plea.

"Nowhere in the affidavit," said Mr. Bigelow, "does accused say he is not guilty. He admits frankly he helped to dispose of the gun, and he drove the car away from the scene."

The three, in company with an 18-year-old girl since released, drove to the Knott and Elford service station at Fountain Circle early in the morning of Nov. 13.

There, said Det. Robert Mair, Shaver took the gun—a Webley air pistol—went into the station and ordered Alex Roshenko, night attendant, to open the till.

Roshenko said he couldn't open it, and just then John Hillyer, 50 Menzies, another employee, approached from outside. Shaver left, without taking any money, and drove off with the others.

They drove west on Hillside and on to Bay, where the gun was hidden under a board walk. Within minutes police, advised of the licence number of the car by Mr. Hillyer, stopped the vehicle on the Johnson Street bridge.

Shaver, admitting to entering the station after drinking, told the court that, while inside, he suddenly realized what he was doing, and was about to call the whole thing off when the appearance of the other employee scared him away.

The three were remanded to Nov. 29 for a probation report and sentence.

H. E. Baade Seeks Seat On Council

First candidate to file nomination papers in Central Saanich is Harry Ernest Baade, Stelleys Crossroad.

A newcomer to the municipal field, he will seek one of two council seats falling vacant.

Councillors Harry Peard and J. B. Windsor, whose terms expire in December, have not yet stated definitely whether they will seek re-election, but it is understood they will.

Reeve Rupert Brown is expected to seek re-election.

Mr. Baade is a retired farmer from Saskatchewan, who has lived in Central Saanich for 10 years, and has wide knowledge of the municipality.

Puppet Rulers Hamstrung By Strikers

VIENNA (AP) — Hungarian workers pushed against a new wave of arrests Thursday as Premier Janos Kadar's government, backed by Russian guns, fought back against paralyzing strikes, scattered violence and almost complete distrust.

The government-controlled Budapest radio, broadcasting from within the tank-encircled Parliament Building, indicated that the general strike called in Budapest was effective.

The flow of refugees from Hungary continued despite action by the Hungarians and Soviet troops to cut it off.

Austria announced it had received more than 60,000 refugees and the situation was getting desperate. It appealed to Western nations to slash red tape and take the refugees to new homes immediately. West Germany said it would remove all restrictions.

Dr. Bruno Kreisky, state secretary in the Austrian foreign ministry, asked the West to drop health checks and political screening.

"We have now received more than 60,000 refugees and we just can't handle this thing any longer," Kreisky declared.

The Budapest strike was called by the General Council of Workers after Kadar's troops and police, supported by Russian tanks, prevented delegates from attending a meeting Wednesday. The strike was to end by today.

Hungarians are suffering a severe coal shortage due to the refusal of apparently a vast majority of miners to dig coal until their demands are met. Production has been reported at between 10 and 15 per cent of normal.

The government announced it was appointing state commissioners to all major plants to help in getting workers back to their benches and maintaining production. It will be their job to settle grievances of workers.

There were unconfirmed reports that Russian troops were slowly going into position to seal off the border and a zone 12 miles wide around it.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

Thetis Scheme For Garbage Wins Approval

Disposal of garbage by sanitary landfill in Thetis Lake Park was approved in principle yesterday by city council, although a final decision on the plan will not come until the 1957 council considers providing the initial capital outlay.

Council balked at approving a committee recommendation that it "authorize the commencement" of disposal by sanitary landfill at Thethis Lake, even though Ald. Arthur Dowell said the plan couldn't go into effect for at least six months.

★ ★ ★

Ald. W. F. Pinfold spent his final hours in office in the mayor's chair, replacing Mayor F. B. Scurrah who is in Eastern Canada. At the end of the meeting his resignation as acting mayor was accepted with reluctance by council, and Ald. Robert Macmillan was appointed acting mayor.

Then Ald. Pinfold resigned from council, because of personal commitments in the coming year.

★ ★ ★

Ald. J. Donald Smith, whose special committee on trades licences will hold a public hearing Nov. 30, sought in vain to have council authorize notices being sent to all trades licencees.

City Comptroller Dennis Young said the cost would be more than $200, since letters, envelopes and stamps would have to be provided for 4,400-licence-holders.

Ald. Smith settled for a newspaper advertisement.

★ ★ ★

A petition from property-owners in the 1700 and 1800-blocks of Douglas for traffic signals at the intersection of Douglas and Herald, scene of a recent fatality, was referred to public works committee.

★ ★ ★

Ald. Edgelow said he couldn't understand why the city needed to have a $15,500 comfort station in Beacon Hill Park and didn't see why plans for a cheaper one couldn't be prepared.

But Ald. Robert Macmillan explained that "the factors that make it more expensive now will make it less expensive in the long run," and council approved transferring $3,551 from contingency funds.

★ ★ ★

Ald. Edgelow also questioned whether the city should contribute up to $750 toward decoration of downtown lamp standards this Christmas season with holly baskets.

"You can't expect the taxpayers to pay for lighting that's going to improve business for the business men," he said..

Ald. Austin Curtis said that the Chamber of Commerce felt that since the city installed the flower baskets in the summer, perhaps it would install the holly baskets in the winter.

Council agreed to share the cost of the decorations, with a $750 limit.

★ ★ ★

The city solicitor was instructed to prepare amendments to the Procedure By-law that will make it no longer the "secrecy by-law."

★ ★ ★

Sections giving the mayor and city manager virtual censorship power over incoming council mail will be deleted, and the section barring anyone but committee members from committee meetings will be amended to read:

"Members of the council other than members of the committee may attend the meetings of any of its committees but shall not be allowed to vote; nor may they take part in any discussion or debate except by permission of the majority of the members of the committee. Representatives of the press may also attend any meeting of a committee of the council unless a majority of the committee shall object. Other persons shall not attend except at the invitation of the chairman."

Visit of United Kingdom trade commissioner Philip B. Hunt to Victoria will take place Tuesday and Wednesday. Mr. Hunt is at present on a tour of Western Canada.

Base Metals Alone Resist Drop in Prices

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and western oils closed at their lowest point of the day but managed to be the winning side during Thursday's slow stock market trading.

Without the usual leadership of Wall Street, closed for the American Thanksgiving holiday, the market wandered about aimlessly with each section taking its share of losses. A lack of news from the international picture continued to keep traders away from the trading area.

Most industrial sections showed more losses than gains with papers dominating the decline. Crown Zellerbach lost 1¼ points and Price Bros. a point. A few other papers dipped fractions. Pembina, a good winner Wednesday, was down 1⅛ points.

Crow's Nest Pass Coal recorded the best gain on the board, a jump of 15 points to a new high of 225 but only on a 10-share sale. Also go. Steel added two points and Imperial Bank gained a point.

Falconbridge and Consolidated Smelters added fractions among senior mines to offset Hudson Bay's ¼-point loss and a 1⅜-point decline by International Nickel, trading ex-dividend.

Western oils were lightly traded and small losses among index stocks caused the section's lower tone. Bailey - Selburn was off ¼. Central Leduc, however, gained 15 cents and Trans Empire 10 cents.

Algoma Up $2

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrials closed irregularly lower Thursday on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges. Trading was light and the list narrow as some declines ranged over a point.

In base metals International Nickel dropped 1⅜, trading ex dividend. Aluminium added ¾ in the section. Algoma jumped two points in the steels. Papers were mixed with Price off a point and Howard Smith up one.

Refining oils gave ground as McColl lost one and B.A. dipped ⅝. Interprovincial Pipe Line gained a point. Walker in the beverages and Shawinigan in the utilities were both point losers.

Mines were mixed in a 10 cent range. Virginia, Quebec Chib, Opemisca Explorers and Bateman Bay were losers while Montgary, Portage, and Hudson Rand were winners.

Forest Stock Slips

VANCOUVER—Lack of enthusiasm brought prices lower with B.C. Forest Products dipping to a new low of $11.25. Inland Natural Gas receded another 25 cents to 6.50, and Bralorne was off 50 cents at 4.40.

Holding firm were MacMillan at $28½ and Bethlehem Copper at 1.80. Higher were Capital Estates at 4.60, Alberta Distillers at 1.50, and Sun at $9.

Silbak Premier made a rally to 14 cents among mines, but Cowichan slipped to 1.38 in that section.

Oils attracted little attention but Vantor was lower at 1.15.

Losses Widespread

LONDON (Reuters)—After displaying stability in initial dealings the London stock market developed fresh weakness and losses in industrials and oils were widespread and substantial.

It was reported that there was a certain amount of forced selling. Gilt edged was the only section to show any recovery and even here losses extended to 5-16.

Oil shares moved widely and sharply lower with the leaders up to four shillings lower. Industrials were weak with the steel shares showing losses of up to two shillings.

Shipping shares receded but P. and O. was harder on the formation of a subsidiary in Bermuda. Base metals weakened under the lead of coppers which reflected the overnight setback on Wall Street.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Broad but small export interest in nearly all Canadian grains featured moderately active trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

The United Kingdom took small parcels of barley and modest quantities of flax. Flax also went to the Continent. Germany took some quantities of both oats and rye.

Oats, barley and rye prices were narrow while flax moved higher. Shipping orders and small hedges showed in oats and barley; seaboard buying appeared in flax and rye trade was quiet with an occasional shipping order.

No information was available on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

Feminine answer to the problem of flying pucks is this glamor mask invented by Mrs. Doris Stark, a rinkside Toronto Maple Leaf fan for 22 years. The gadget, which is a catcher's mask fitted with two bars across the mouth, a screwdriver as a handle and sequins and gold dust sprinkled on the foam rubber covered frame, was invented by Mrs. Stark after one of her friends lost two teeth when hit by a puck.—(CPC)

Efficient Soviets Trounce Canadians

MELBOURNE — Russia's convictoin that it will beat the United States at the Americans' own game of basketball was proven no idle boast Thursday as an amazingly-efficient Soviet team trounced Canada, 97-59, in the opening competition of the Olympic Games.

Coach Gerald Tucker and the entire U.S. team was on hand for the game and everyone was properly impressed.

"Man," exclaimed team official Lou Wilkie after the game, "we were really shocked. I don't know whether hte Russians are stronger than we thought or the Canadians weaker than we had imagined.

Whichever it was, there was no doubt of Russian superiority over a Canadian team which had won two games out of three from the U.S. AAU champs. Buchans of Seattle, in an exhibition series just before the Canadian team left for Australia.

SUPERIOR CONDITION

Not as tall as the Canadian all-stars, the Russians showed superior condition, a sound and resourceful floor game, accurate shooting and dominated the rebounding.

At the start, the speedy Russians used a fast break but towards the end of the first half, they slowed down to a deliberate offensive in which they methodically set up their plays.

Russia won without using Jan Kruminsh, their seven-foot, two-inch giant. The Latvian woodcutter drew plenty of comment, however, as he took part in pre-game and half-time warmups.

He wasn't needed. Six of the Russian team wound up in double figures. Bob Pickel led both clubs with 26 points but the Canadian club didn't have the all-round power to hold the Russians.

In another game Thursday, Nationalist China (Formosa) bested Korea, 83-76.

In Friday's first games, the Philippines beat Thailand, 94-55, and France downed Singapore, 81-55. The U.S. team plays later in the day, against Japan.

Fours Win Heat; Eights Beat U.S.

MELBOURNE (CP) — University of British Columbia's crews advanced today to the semi-finals in the continuing Olympics rowing competition with a victory in the fours without coxswain and a close second-place finish behind Australia in the eights.

The eights lost by about five feet to the Australians in a thrilling three-way finish that left the favored American Yale crew in third place. Britain was fourth, about two lengths behind Yale.

A crowd of about 5,000 near the finish line let out with a roar when the Australians pushed over the wire by the tiny margin over the fast Canadian shell with the Americans only about a length behind.

Canada's time was 6.07.1. Australia's winning mark was 6.05.8 and the American time was 6.09.1 over the 2,000-metre course.

The Yale club and Britain go into the repechages (second chance) round Saturday, with Canada and Australia entering the semi-finals Monday.

The UBC eights crew was made up of Douglas McDonald, William McKerlich, Donald Pretty, Dvaid Helliwell, Robert Wilson, Richard McGlure, Philip Keuber, Lawrence West, Stroke, and Carlton Agawa, cox.

This was the race the Americans had expected to win the most, even though Australia and Canada were rated strong rivals. The U.S. had won the event seven straight times since 1920.

Americans Well Back

But the Yale crew trailed almost all the way today. It was the Canadians and Australians through the first 900 metres with Yale running third or fourth.

At the 1,200-metre mark the Americans began closing in a little and by 1,500 metres, were just slightly behind as all of the three leaders matched stroke for stroke.

At this stage the three all hiked their beats, but the Canadians and Australians pulled ahead at the finish.

Czechoslovakia, champions of Europe, won the second heat of the eights by nipping Japan in the last 100 metres, with France third.

In another thrilling heat, Sweden rallied to nose out Russia by five feet, with Italy third by another half-length.

Canada's earlier victory came in the fours without coxswain when the UBC crew took a thumping five-length victory over Germany, with Australia third and Denmark a poor fourth.

Only heat winners in this event qualify for Monday's semi-final. The others go into repechages Saturday, a second-chance phase.

The Canadians trailed the Germans until the halfway mark. Then they took full command, simply rowing away from the Germans with a great display of smoothness, power and fine steering.

The UBC fours are made up of Don Arnold, Kelowna, stroke; Walter d'Hondt, Vancouver, No. 3; Lorne Loomer, Vancouver, No. 2, and Archie Mackinnon, Vancouver, bow.

The Canadians were timed in 6.36.6, only six-tenths of a second behind the Olympic record set by Britain in 1928.

The Detroit Boat Club took the next heat for the United States, winning by five lengths over a wild-steering French quartet. Cuba was a bad third and last.

Canada's time of 6.36.6 was the fastest of any heat winner.

Canadian Showings

Ken Money of Ferris, Ont., assured Canada of her first points by clearing 6 feet, 8¼ inches in the high jump. He is one of five men left and is assured of no worse than two points for a fifth-place finish.

Stan Levenson of Toronto won his first heat in the 100 metres, then finished third in the second round to advance to the semi-finals. Richard Harding and John Parrington, however, failed to qualify.

Jackie McDonald of Toronto failed to qualify in the women's discus throw, missing the required 137 feet, 9 inches by more than five feet.

Canada's eight-oared crew from UBC placed second in its heat to qualify for the semi-finals.

The four-oared crew without coxswain, from UBC, won its heat to qualify for the second round.

Olympic Briefs

Olga Fikotova of Czechoslovakia won the first track and field gold medal with a mighty toss of 53.69 metres (176 feet, one and a half inches) in the women's discus throw. It was the third time the Olympic record had been broken Friday. Earlier, Russia's Irina Beglakovas pushed it to 51.74 metres (169 feet, nine inches). Then Miss Kikotova did 52.04 metres.

Charles Vinci of the U.S. won the first gold medal by winning the bantamweight weightlifting championship. Vladimir Stogog of Russia was second and Mahmud Mamdjou of Iran third.

Vladimir Kuts of Russia Friday won the 10,000 metres before a madly-cheering crowd of 100,000, beating out Britain's Gordon Pirie with a burst of speed in the last four laps.

Bobby Morrow and Ira Murchison of the U.S. both equalled the Olympic 100-metre record of 10.3 seconds in winning second-round heats early Friday. Teammate Thane Baker won his heat in 10.4 seconds.

Derek Johnson of England turned in the best time—1.50.8—of any heat winners in the 800 metres.

U.S. won the first face-to-face meeting with Russian athletes when their pairs without coxswain easily beat the Russian entry in one of the heats in the rowing events.

Two U.S. boxers, featherweight Harry Smith and bantamweight Choken Maekawa, were eliminated from the Olympic tournament when both weighed in overweight. A request that Maekawa be allowed to take Smith's place in the featherweight division was denied.

Cliff Blair, U.S. hammer-thrower, was temporarily suspended from his team for writing articles for a Boston newspaper in alleged violation of the Olympic athletic code.

Good Night for Trailers

Hawks Upset Canyens, 5-3; Rangers End Bruins' Streak

Chicago Black Hawks and goalkeeper Lorne Worsley of the New York Rangers stole the headlines last night as all six National Hockey League clubs saw action in games which saw the three trailers take five out of a possible six points from the three top clubs.

Hawks delighted their largest crowd of the season—more than 9,000—by upsetting Montreal Canadiens, 5-3, to extend their unbeaten streak to three games.

Chicago	18	4	12	2	35	54	10

Last night's scores: New York 4, at Boston 3; Montreal 1 at Chicago 5; Toronto 2 at Detroit 2.

Next games Tomorrow: New York at Montreal; Boston at Toronto; Chicago at Detroit.

They had won and tied in their two previous games.

At Boston, two streaks ended as the Rangers handed the Bruins their first defeat on home ice this season, but only because of the puck-blocking wizardry of Worsley.

It was the first Ranger victory in 11 games and the first Boston loss in 10 games.

In the third game, at Detroit, Maple Leafs scored on a six-man attack 75 seconds from time to gain a 2-2 tie with the Wings.

Worsley was often little short of phenomenal as he kept Rangers in the game in the first period by getting in front of 23 of the 24 shots sent his way.

After Danny Lewicki scored at 2.16, the Rangers didn't get another shot on Terry Sawchuk for 12 minutes. Bruins poured rubber at Worsley, and although he yielded once while his club was shorthanded, he alone kept the Rangers in the game.

Andy Hebenton snapped a lengthy goal famine in the last minute of the period to put Rangers ahead again, and they got the only two goals of the second period to take a 4-1 bulge into the final 20 minutes.

It was barely enough. Bruins scoring twice in two minutes to bring the capacity crowd of 13,909 to its feet. Worsley, however, refused to yield a fourth goal.

Wings twice took the lead at Toronto but couldn't hold it as the young Leafs kept plugging away. Rookie Barry Cullen tied it for the second time after Leafs gambled by taking goalie Ed Chadwick out of the nets with a minute and a half left.

Hawks, who had scored only once in three previous games against the Stanley Cup champions, built up an early lead and hung on against constant Montreal pressure.

Canadiens scored twice late in the second period to get to 3-4 but a steady Chicago defence and great goaling by Al Rollins kept them out in the third period. They took out goalie Gerry McNeil late in the game and Harry Watson beat the final whistle by 11 seconds as he fired the clincher into the open net.

Drakes, Fuelers Gain One-Point Hoop Wins

Drakes and Rose Fuel chalked up their first victories of the Senior "B" Men's Basketball League in dramatic fashion at the Victoria High School gym last night, each club scoring a basket in the final minute of play to squeeze out one-point triumphs.

Paul Clarkson's Rose Fuel squad gained its first victory in three years of senior "B" competition and Clarkson played the key role in a 48-47 triumph over Farmer Construction. Drakes overcame an eight-point, half-time deficit to beat Morrisons, 52-51.

The Fuel squad, leading 26-18 at half-time, were trailing 47-43 in the late stages of the thriller. Paul Simpson put the winners within two points and Clarkson sank a basket and a free shot to provide the victory. Clarkson led both teams in scoring with 21 points, including 15 in the second half.

Tom Sanregret, better-known for his gric ability, proved the hero for Drakes when he dropped in a shot with 30 seconds remaining to provide the winning margin. Morrisons held a 27-13 lead at half-time.

Television Plans Set for Grey Cup

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Canadian Broadcasting Corporation officials in Vancouver Thursday announced details of the colorful coverage of Saturday's Grey Cup football final which will be brought to British Columbians by live television and radio, direct from Varsity Stadium in Toronto.

Station CBUT, the corporation's Vancouver television outlet, will start its telecast of the national East-West classic at 9 a.m., PST, with a half-hour program entitled "Grey Cup Matinee." The show will include highlights of this year's semi-final and final playoffs, in both parts of the country, out of which the Edmonton Eskimos and the Montreal Alouettes emerged respectively as champions of the West and East.

At 9.30, CBUT will show a 15-minute program entitled "Grey Cup Festival." It will deal, in the main, with such pre-game festivities as the invasion of Toronto by western supporters.

At 9.45, the live cameras will switch over to Varsity Stadium for the pre-game warmups and shots of the crowd. At 10 a.m., the telecast of the game itself will begin.

The CBC's Dominion network, meanwhile, will start radio coverage at 9.15 a.m. with a half-hour "Grey Cup Preview program that will parallel the "Matinee" and "Festival" shows on the TV network. At 9.45, the microphones at Varsity Stadium will come in with the pre-game highlights, and the actual play-by-play broadcast of the game will follow at 10 a.m.

More Help Coming

Cougars Host Amerks Tonight

Victoria Cougars face the formidable task of stopping Seattle Americans at Memorial Arena tonight, but they'll take the ice considerably heartened by two straight victories over Vancouver Canucks earlier in the week and with a new player whose past record indicates he will be able to give the club another lift.

Ray Powell, a 31-year-old centreman with the experience of 11 professional seasons behind him is the newcomer. He'll be followed in about three weeks by another proven centre, who is due to join the club in mid-December.

Coach Colin Kilburn said yesterday that he had received word that the unnamed centre, who was injured during the training season, is now skating but under orders not to scrimmage until Dec. 10. Barring unforseen complications, he should join the Cougars about Dec. 15, and in condition to play.

PLAYS TONIGHT

Powell, a 170-pound six-footer, arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon and will be in the lineup tonight. He has been at Kelowna, where he worked out with the city's Okanagan Hockey League club to be ready in the event he was reinstated as an amateur. He was sought by Vancouver Canucks early in the season.

Powell's first complete pro season was 1945-46, when he divided his time between New Haven of the AHL and Fort Worth of the USHL, getting 21 goals and 39 assits in a total of 47 games.

. . . starts tonight

Then followed four complete seasons in the USHL, all but part of the first at Kansas City. During that stretch, he scored 140 goals and 231 assists. His record, successively from the 1946-47 season through the 1949-50 season was 28-42; 37-47; 48-58 and 27-84. He was scoring champion the last two seasons.

He was named the most valuable player for the 1949-50 season.

He started with Milwaukee in 1950-51 and after scoring 19 goals and getting 19 assists in the first 35 games, was brought up to the NHL by Chicago.

In 31 games for the Hawks, he had seven goals and 15 assists. Sent to Providence the next season, he won the AHL scoring championship with 97 points, 35 of them goals, and the most valuable player award.

After two seasons at Providence, he was with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League for the past three seasons.

In 665 games of professional hockey, Powell has scored 298 goals and made 538 assists for 836 points, an average of 27 goals and 76 points a season. By comparison, the leading point-getter in WHL history, Bobby Love, has 562 points, 187 of them goals, for 560 games.

Kilburn said that Powell would share centre-ice duties with Don Chiupka on a line which will have rookies Larry Leach and George Ranieri on the wings.

The Doug Anderson-Kilburn-Doug Macauley and Gordie Haworth-Wayne Brown-Bruce Carmichael lines remain unchanged.

Irish Fat an' Spoilin' fer a Fight

By OSCAR FRALEY

MELBOURNE (UP)—Sure, 'tis the luck of the Irish the boys from Erin were needin' as the Olympic Games opened.

Not that it isn't a fine group, a broth of a boy each and ivery one of them, mind ye. But it just comes down to the fact that there are too miny folks from the Ould Sod outside of Ireland.

The Irish are thick as fleas on a dog's back, no matter where ye may go, and they've hospitality-ized the whole domned place.

They needed a shillelagh, they did, to get away from the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Knights of Columbus and various imstragglers such as the Kellys, the O'Briens and the Finnegans, may the Lord hold each and ivery one of thim in the hollow of his hand.

But as the story goes, there were just too many of thim.

Now ye may ask what happened to the Irish fighters, and bad cest to ya. Because there's seven of them on this team from Erin and they be good ones, too, they be.

The trouble was with the rest of the Irish.

It's a long way from the little green isle, flying across the route that all the New York policemen took by boat. Then on across America, where the Irish laid all the railroad tracks. And at each stop, there were the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, kilts and bands and foine big feeds.

So whin they finally make it away from San Francisco, what do yet think happens thin? Why the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, bless 'em and keep 'em from harm's way, were waitin' in Honolulu, complete with green leis and a big feed at Kelly's place, known to some as the Reef Hotel.

Surely the Irish never had better Irish food: pot and cream puffs and ice cream and other sich Dublin delicacies.

But whin the Irish landed in Melbourne, now what do ya think happened? Why, of course, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick were waitin' again with kilted band and supper invitations and more attention than you'd get wearing an orange tie in Killarney on March the 17th.

But, the hevvins be praised, they finally made it to the Olympic village, they did.

With ivery mother'v son of thim 10 pounds overweight.

Nor was that the end of it, begorrah. The boxers needed action, to be certain. So the lads beat the official flag raising by hoisting the biggest Irish flag ever seen on a flagpole meant for a tiny little banner. They came running, they did, those officials.

But the flag stayed there, it did.

Where are the men, you well may ask, who will defy 12 Irishmen standing shoulder to shoulder for the flag? And sivin of them official fighters needing action.

Erin may not win any gold medals, Acushla. But the world will know they've been here. After all, me lad, they've got the biggest flag and the fattest athletes in the village. That they have, thanks to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick.

Oarsmen Meet Tars In First Rugby Test

JBAA, the defending first division champion, will make its first start of the Victoria Rugby Union season Saturday when it meets the winless Navy team at HMCS Naden grounds at 2 p.m. in one of two matches scheduled.

The powerful Oarsmen have dominated local first division competition for the past two years and are reported to have lined up another strong club in their bid for a championship this season.

The sailors have been victims of defeat in both first division matches played this season. Victoria College Vikings trounced the Tars, 23-2, and Oak Bay Wanderers trimmed the sailors 35-3.

Vikings and the Wanderers, who both were beaten in exhibition games against Mainland clubs last weekend, will meet for first place Saturday at Windsor Park at 2.30.

Tory 'Rebels' Reassured By Butler

LONDON (Reuters) — Richard Butler, acting for ailing Sir Anthony Eden, said Thursday Britain is not prepared to withdraw her troops from Suez until the government is satisfied the United Nations police force is competent to carry out the tasks allotted to it.

R. A. BUTLER

Egypt.

Butler, lord privy seal and deputy to the prime minister, faced questions in the House of Commons about the Middle East situation as his chief stayed home preparing to fly to Jamaica today for a three-week rest ordered by his doctors.

Questions on the withdrawal of British troops were fired not only by the anti - intervention Labor opposition but by Conservatives who fear a softening up of British policy.

ASK CONFIRMATION

Julian Amery, a leading member of the right - wing Conservative 'Suez group' whose declared aim is to maintain firm Britain Suez policy, asked bluntly: "Can you confirm our troops will not be withdrawn from Port Said until the government is satisfied the United Nations is willing and able to send a force able to secure international control of the canal?"

Butler replied: We are not prepared to withdraw until we consider that this force is competent to discharge the tasks which the United Nations assembly has given it to do."

The General Assembly in its resolution of Nov. 2 urged among other things that upon the cease fire in Egypt being effected "steps be taken to reopen the Suez Canal and restore secure freedom of navigation."

Butler said that the report published Wednesday night by Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary general, contained unsatisfactory elements. That referred to the clearance of that section of the blocked Suez Canal south of the blocked Suez Canal now held by British and French control.

"CUT QUIBBLING"

He demanded that the clearing of the canal be carried out "with the least possible quibbling . . . as possible trouble."

Butler said a decision on withdrawal must be taken by us as part of a concerted decision of sovereign states in company with the United Nations itself because it is our desire to work with the United Nations. There is no question of flouting the United Nations but we must reserve to ourselves the ultimate judgment in that matter. Our forces are our own forces."

Following the death of the Red Lake child, seven was sent an from Kenora. A large meeting of community leaders which had been scheduled in Centennial hall was cancelled and the hall be cared as emergency immunization centre. More than 400 persons were immunized the same evening.

Tension Grows

Eden Holiday Shakes Party

LONDON (CP)—In an atmosphere of growing tension, Conservative party members met Thursday night in a parliamentary committee room to consider their attitude to withdrawal of Anglo-French forces from Egypt.

Butler, lord privy seal and the split in the Conservative party [illegible] Suez [illegible] Harold Macmillan [illegible] the peaceful demand caused by the [illegible] at the conference [illegible] the great [illegible] Eden [illegible] by the strain [illegible] Eden [illegible] the illness of Prime Minister [illegible] for three weeks in Jamaica [illegible] Sir Anthony's [illegible] absence [illegible] Conservative [illegible] party [illegible]

Eden, brought to the point of collapse by the [illegible] crisis of the last few weeks, flies today to Jamaica for a three-week holiday. His first act [illegible] months. Butler takes over in his absence.

The premier's decision to leave London with the outcome of his Suez policy still undetermined prompted some parliamentarians to wonder whether his political future may not be endangered.

Commentators of varying political persuasions agreed on the gravity of the crisis.

The Evening News, Conservative, says strain will be [illegible] The fate of the government may be in the balance this weekend." The left-wing New Statesman says: "The government is in desperate trouble."

Butler and MacMillan took the unusual step of addressing the [illegible] committee at a meeting of the 1922 committee, an influential group of Conservative MPs.

In a statement earlier in the House of Commons, Butler strongly denied claims by the Labor opposition of collusion between Britain, France and Israel [illegible] overshadowing even the great [illegible]

Afro-Asian Bloc Move May Stall UN Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — United Nations delegates hoping for quick approval today of two final reports on the Middle East situation were discouraged Thursday night by word the Asian-African bloc plans to present two controversial resolutions which would stall action on the reports.

The United States was reported to be [illegible] Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold to go ahead with negotiation of contracts for clearing the Suez Canal and approve his report on operations so far of the UN emergency force.

However, India and other Asian-African countries are said to be considering two resolutions which, if presented, would no doubt lead to lengthy debate and thus delay acceptance of Hammarskjold's two reports.

One would insist that Britain, France and Israel pull quickly out of Egypt.

The other it is reported would insist that the cost of clearing the canal be paid by Britain and France.

The main stumbling block in a speedy approval of Hammarskjold's reports would be if the Asian-African bloc insist that their withdrawal resolution be taken up first on a priority basis. There [illegible] This no doubt would lead to lengthy debate and block action on the two U.S. resolutions which, in effect, would give Hammarskjold the green light to continue arrangements for clearing the canal and for operation of the UN police force.

Taft-Hartley Law Invoked in Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower [illegible] Thursday invoked the Taft-Hartley law's national emergency provisions in the east and Gulf coast waterfront strike. His move was aimed at ending the crippling walkout by Monday.

The president used the government's toughest strike weapon under a timetable that called for seeking a court injunction this weekend, ordering the striking longshoremen back to work and then [illegible] have imposed on each trade.

Louis Waldman, counsel for the striking union, said in New York the union would obey such an injunction.

SERIOUS REPERCUSSIONS

James C. Hagerty, the president's press secretary, said he stressed the seriousness of the shipping stoppage and said it had "repercussions far beyond the [illegible] and striking International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) to resolve their differences quickly.

Controversial Book Claims Cider Vinegar a Cure-All

A certain reader who is definitely a food faddist and one knows that I know she is this way) drops not offend her by ... with the chief meals of the day ... as well as in the morning. The ... should be sipped ... that the whole contents of the ... addition to its other effects ... moistens the desire to overeat ... also promotes digestion.

... the two booklets by a certain ... Cyril Scott. Published in London ... they are obtainable in Canada ... and they certainly make very controversial reading. The gist of one is Cider Vinegar ... quickly over it, for ... space of time it would appear ... the author's claim, is what ... C. V. as he calls it is a sort of ... cure-all. I wish I could put ... point the word I'd like to ... say but one must at least try ... to be ladylike.

One remark he makes, however, is worthy of consideration by those who are interested in reducing but I will not vouch for its effectiveness, never having tried it. I quote from his opening chapter on obesity . . . 'As so many women are assailed with the fear of getting fat, I will deal with this condition first, though it is not looked upon as a disease in the ordinary use of the word. Now the safe and salubrious treatment, proved over years of trial, is to be found in nothing more complicated than Cider Vinegar . . . The 'modus operandi' is as follows: Two teaspoonsful of the Cider Vinegar in a tumbler of water to be taken on rising in the morning. To get the desired effect, the practice is to be continued over a long period.

"Obesity cannot be expected ... within a few days ... Nor is it desirable that ... should, as the skin requires ... to readjust itself ... Why not give it a ... doesn't some good ... and let us all know ... works?" I'm afraid ... set as these ... you see first what happens to ... yours!

Oh wait a minute. He goes on to say, quite "In severe cases of overweight C. V. can be taken as above indicated ... Lean meat, leafy ... green and yellow vegetables ... and tomatoes can be eaten in ... large amounts. Fruits contain ... much more sugar than vege... lemon juice try it in your cof... in moderation. Cottage cheese is ... excellent as is also buttermilk ... or skim milk. And believe it or ... not between meal snacks of the ... right kind are excellent ... carrot sticks, vegetable juices ... for example. And I swear by ... yoghurt but no one seems to ... be interested as I've had no ... comments.

Such snacks ward off feelings of hunger and therefore prevent you from eating too much at meal times.

FOODS TO AVOID

Definitely out, of course, are chocolates, pies and rich desserts, cake and cookies, salad dressings and rich gravies, fried foods and nuts. Then you must at least cut down on your use of butter, sugar, cream, starchy vegetables such as corn, lima beans and potatoes. Once you get used to forming eating habits along this very general line it's really not difficult and will soon become a habit.

You and I have said before that, except in special cases, overweight is caused by eating more than the body requires — an unpleasant fact but true so let's face it.

TRICK OF THE DAY

From Miss C. S. "If you like ... lemon juice try it in your cof... 1 tablespoon to a cup.

Thank you so much Miss C. S. for your most interesting letter on lemon juice. Strangely enough it arrived just after I had written the above so I am going to run yours in full next week to give the other side of the picture.

* * *

Since so many requests come in for weight-reducing menus each week I feature one each week right with it this morning, as we many of us have to watch what we eat to avoid overweight.

FOODS TO CHOOSE

Obviously you must eat enough to keep up your health and strength and to avoid ir... more than the body requires ...

British Girls Seek Adventure

LONDON (CP) — Scores of British girls are leaving secure jobs to take domestic posts on the continent.

Says Richard Burnett, who runs a West End employment bureau: "They aren't keen on domestic posts because they feel ... and want to live in another country for awhile."

Most girls who apply to the bureau are secretaries or shop assistants with a fairly good standard of education, with some knowledge of French or German.

Switzerland is the most popular country to work in, with Italy running a close second.

SUN AND SPORT

... Switzerland is ... attracts them," says Burnett, "for visions of eternal sun in Italy."

Even and for jobs was so great a branch office was opened in Zurich to cope with the flood of applicants.

The bureau has 15 associate offices around the world. Recently one was opened in Vancouver to help line up jobs for British girls visiting Canada and for Canadians going to London.

"Canadian families are so keen to have British domestic help that many are offering to advance the fare to a reliable girl," says Burnett.

5½-DAY WEEK

Each home requiring domestic staff is checked to see there is a private room available for the girl and she must have a day and a half off each week.

Next spring Burnett hopes to take a trip to Canada and look things over for himself.

He is also planning to set up a special Canadian department at his offices in Soho to cope with the influx of Canadian girls who come over for the summer and want temporary office jobs.

Black Market

Teahouse Moon Shine

FT. BUCKNER, Okinawa (AP)—The fictional "Teahouse of the August Moon" got rich on local booze. But the proprietoress of the real McCoy has been sentenced to 30 days at hard labor and fined $1,000 for buying her liquor on the black market.

A U.S. Army court martial passed the sentence on Mrs. Eiko Teihara Rose, Okinawan wife of an army civilian employee, Richard Rose of Wenatchee, Wash. She operates one of Okinawa's biggest dining-drinking-geisha establishments, named for the best-selling novel subsequently made into a hit play and movie.

The army said the August moon shone thyar round at Mrs. Rose's teahouse, thanks to tax-free liquor from Okinawa Ytrans of Foreign Wars Club.

WEDNESDAY REVIEW: "Tom Sawyer" set to music, was a waste of time. The "spooky" settings were good but the music sounded all the same. It was nothing like "Jack and the Beanstalk." On the other hand Eartha Kitt in toreador pants etc. singing "C'est Si Bon" and Dave Brubeck happily pounding the piano made the Chrysler Festival a great experience.

Today's Best

Final shows today: Bandstand (channel 4 2:30 p.m.), with Julius La Rosa, and Quarterback Club (channel 13, 7 p.m.).

Debut: Frontier, with a story of revenge (channel 11, 7 p.m.).

Ed Murrow interviews Lawrence Welk on Person to Person (channel 11, 7:30 p.m.).

Edie Adams and Stubby Kaye of the "Li'l Abner" cast visit Walter Winchell (channel 1) while Dick Powell stars in a Zane Grey show (channel 11), both at 8:30 p.m.

Skater Suzanne Morrow and Brad the Clown talk to Joe McCulley on Graphic (channel 2, 9 p.m.).

At 10 p.m., there's Victory at Sea (channel 2), the story of a jazz musician's troubles on Lineup (channels 11 and 12) and Ray Anthony with the Four Freshmen and Frank Leahy (channel 5).

Sport Specials

Touchdown, one of the best football shows is on channel 4 at 6 p.m., an hour before the Madison Square Garden fight between welterweights Tony De Marco, Boston, and Gaspar Ortega, Tia Juana, over 10 rounds or less.

CPA Seeking New Air Link

VANCOUVER (CP)—An application for extension of the Mexico-Toronto air service across the Atlantic to Lisbon is being made by Canadian Pacific Airlines, G. W. G. McConachie, president, announced here Wednesday.

The proposed route extension would link Latin America with Europe via Canada. It would also blaze a new travel trail across the Atlantic for Canadian travellers by providing a direct air service between Toronto, Montreal and Lisbon.

CPA inaugurated the non-stop Toronto-Mexico route in November of last year.

Flying time over the 5,800-mile Mexico-Toronto-Montreal-Lisbon route would be less than 23 hours. Linking, at Mexico City, with the existing CPA route to South America, it would provide an 11,200-mile intercontinental connection all the way from Buenos Aires to Lisbon.

Flying time between Toronto and Lisbon on the proposed 3,600-mile route across the mid-Atlantic would be less than 14 hours while the Montreal-Lisbon air time would be 12 hours.

'Happy' Hall Candidate For Mayor

NANAIMO—Ald. Mrs. G. L. (Happy) Hall announced yesterday that she would run for mayor of this city in the Dec. 13 elections when it was learned that the resignation of Earle C. Westwood was in the hands of the city administration.

She is the first to announce her intention to run for the position.

Mrs. Hall said that through the resignation of Mr. Westwood, "Nanaimo has just lost one of its most able and popular citizens in public service.

"The work I have had the privilege to share as chairman of the finance committee, in co-operation with Mayor Westwood, has given me a firm grasp of the more intricate workings of civic affairs."

Mrs. Hall said she felt bound to offer herself as candidate for the vacant position.

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—Cholera in epidemic form has attacked 84 villages in the Dacca district of East Pakistan resulting in 121 deaths in a week, it was reported yesterday.

Big North Cowichan Deal

Employees Housing Estate Will Not Be Company Town

NORTH COWICHAN—A $2,000,000 housing development which will ultimately provide 200 houses for the Crofton district was ratified by North Cowichan council Wednesday. While the development will provide housing for pulp mill employees of the B.C. Forest Products, an essential of the plan is that there will be no company town.

The development agreement, reached with the Associated Development Company, calls for construction of the 200 houses in three stages.

In the first stage, 50 houses will be built, and an equal number in the second stage. The first two stages are estimated to cost $1,000,000. The third stage will provide an additional 100 houses at a further cost of $1,000,000.

TWO ESSENTIALS

"For some time past," Reeve C. A. P. Murison said, "ways and means of providing for the anticipated surplus of the employees of the pulp mill and their families have been under discussion.

"An essential from the development point of view was that houses should be eligible for NHA loans; an essential from the municipal point of view—a point of view with which B.C. Forest Products is in complete accord—was that there should be no company town."

In the draft agreement, the company agrees to conform to the general layout drawn up by the regional planning branch of the provincial government.

SERVICES TO BE GIVEN

It agrees, at its own expense, to clear the land selectively, and to service the development with 50-foot streets with 24-foot blacktop, provide water and hydrants, sewers, including trunk lines and disposal units and street lights.

Lot areas will be not less than 60x120, and house areas will be not less than 900 square feet.

To guarantee that there will be no appearance of a company town, or tenement-type development, the company guarantees that house designs will be varied to prevent uniformity; no lot will be sold without a house on it.

The municipality will be indemnified against third party risks, and the company will post a performance bond equal to approximately half the estimated cost of the services.

On its part, Reeve Murison said that the municipality agrees to sell the company undeveloped land as required for each stage at $400 per acre; with the exception of streets adjacent to the trunk sewer, to give the company for two years the exclusive right to connect sewer systems to the trunk lines, and to provide a site for a disposal unit.

All services installed by the company will become the property of the municipality upon completion. Selling price of the land is approximately four times the present assessed value.

"A big feature of the development in Crofton," said Reeve Murison, "is that development of the housing project is planned around services, instead of the usual situation where services at high cost are made to fit development."

Fined $100

Youth Had Knife For 'Protection'

DUNCAN—A teen-ager was fined $100 and costs for carrying a knife "for a purpose dangerous to the public peace" in police court here.

When asked by the magistrate why he was carrying the weapon, an army bayonet, filed down to a five-inch blade, Brian Egan, 18, said it was for protection against gangs from Nanaimo and Crofton who "came up here and beat us up. I was carrying the knife for my own protection."

Egan was arrested after he, with a group of other teen-agers, was discovered by a householder on the verandah of his home.

'Stop Liquor Sales on Ferries'

Coroner Blames Liquor For Most Road Deaths

NANAIMO (CP)—Liquor is the greatest single contributing factor in B.C.'s highway traffic death toll, district coroner H. W. Lewis said yesterday.

Commenting on the record tallied up to date which has already made this year the most disastrous as far as traffic deaths are concerned, Dr. Lewis said: "In 80 per cent of the cases which come before us for investigation liquor is a contributing factor."

To cut the death toll, Dr. Lewis said, "first and foremost, stop the sale of beer or hard liquor on Nanaimo-Vancouver ferries. Too many people come off those ferries behind the wheel of a car, loaded but not on the alert.

"Secondly, it should be illegal to supply the driver of any vehicle stopping at a beer parlor or restaurant with beer or liquor."

Dr. Lewis also commented on the tendency of juries to ignore police evidence that one or more of those involved in the case under consideration had been drinking.

"The trouble is too many innocent people are the victims of drinking drivers, and in far too many cases juries tend to ignore the fact that one, or sometimes both drivers involved have been drinking.

"If the superintendent of motor vehicles is looking for suggestions to cut highway fatalities, I propose that he consider all aspects of the liquor factor as it affects driving, particularly our present liquor laws and their affect on the highway accident rate.

"We are paying a yearly tribute in blood and suffering for tolerating drinking drivers at the wheels of automobiles, which in the hands of a drunken driver is nothing more than a self-propelled death-dealing missile."

Driver Dismissed

Mother Chided For Negligence

DUNCAN (CP)—A mother who laid a charge against a motorist was told she herself was negligent in letting a four-year-old girl get out of her control.

The charge against Ian John McCallum of driving without due care and attention was dismissed.

He told the court that he stopped at the flashing red light and looked both ways before starting off again. As he reached the opposite crosswalk he saw the child at his left fender and stopped immediately.

The child was "pushed" over but was on her feet again before he could get to her.

Magistrate A. C. Sutton said the mother was negligent in letting the child get out of control at such a busy intersection.

Loose Cows

Cowichan To Nab Animals

NORTH COWICHAN — The municipal poundkeeper is going to be provided with a horse-box trailer so he can get to lost and strayed animals and take them to the pound before they can be recovered by their owners.

Council was informed, when asked to pass a bill for $188 for the trailer, that it took the poundkeeper so long to line up transportation to the pound for lost or strayed horses and cows that by the time some conveyance had been obtained the animal had been found by its owner and removed.

Crib Catches Fire Three Girls Die

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Three little girls burned to death Tuesday night when the covers on a crib caught fire against the stove in a one-room rural shack near here.

Cowichan Experiments

Much-Used Road Subject of Trials

NORTH COWICHAN—An experiment in road rebuilding that may be of great importance in North Cowichan is being tried out on the heavily-travelled Crofton road leading to the site of the B.C. Forest Products pulp mill.

Councillor George Whittaker, chairman of the board of works, told council that one section of the Crofton road was being rebuilt by "punching shale into the old surface with a spiked roller."

During two days of heavy traffic since the experiment, Councillor Whittaker said the road has improved as the traffic used it.

The councillor said it was impossible to break up the old surface for the ordinary repair job because of the character of the sub-surface.

"From indications now," Councillor Whittaker said, "we may have discovered a method that will be very useful in rebuilding roads."
